IMPORTANT NOTICE

TO SUBSCRIBERS, ADVERTISERS,
CONTRIBUTORS AND CORRE-
SPONDENTS

A paragraph in the minutes of the meeting of the council of the Battle River Municipal District, No. 423, held May 10th, states that that body saw fit to discontinue the special contract whereby a copy of The Irma Times was sent to each resident ratepayer, the contract to terminate this coming June 10th.

Notwithstanding the fact that we will not have the municipal contract this coming year we wish to make it clear that THE IRMA TIMES which name the present publishers have registered with the Post Office Department, Ottawa, will continue to be published weekly by us, minus the special contract. Arrangements have been made whereby each ratepayer who claims Irma as their logical marketing centre will continue to receive The Irma Times.

About a month ago The Irma Times was selected by the council of the Municipal District of Kinross, No. 424, as an official newspaper, and as a consequence The Times has a wide circulation in the Jarro and Kinross districts, just west of Irma. We also have unexpired advertising contracts with Irma merchants and national advertising agencies which we intend to fulfill.

Mr. E. W. Carter will continue on the payroll as local editor and manager, and we bespeak for him the continued support of advertisers, subscribers and correspondents.

Printing orders—all orders—will be given our best attention. Thanking you for the valued patronage each and everyone has given us during the past EIGHTEEN YEARS.

Simpler Problems Baffle Man

While world opinion is disturbed and distorted by threats of war and general unrest, while thoughts of budgetary deficits and problems of trade engage anxious minds at home, it is inspiring to turn to conquests of the physical universe which, from time to time, demonstrate man's ability to master infinitely greater problems than those which threaten his peace, security and prosperity. The statement may be trite and commonplace, but it is nonetheless true, that man's ingenuity in solving the riddles of the universe is in marked contrast with his apparent stupidity and futility in seeking solutions of others directly within his own purview and which, as a matter of fact, are his own creation.

The thought is suggested by recent addition to scientific knowledge of the atmosphere—which is now known to consist of four layers—the troposphere, the stratosphere, the ozonosphere and the ionosphere. The troposphere, the layer closest to earth's surface, is the stratum of changing temperatures and pressures and of wind-driven clouds. As long ago as 1899, it was discovered, by temperature tests, that this layer terminated relatively abruptly at a height of between six and seven miles. Beyond this height, the temperature was found to be relatively constant up to about 23 miles. This layer of calm, cloudless air of uniform temperature is the stratosphere of comparatively recent conquest by balloon ascension.

As this is written, a prairie dust storm occurs the sun, and, as a result, there is a marked fall in temperature. It is palpably cooler. It happens that calculations concerning dust shot into the stratosphere by volcanoes prove similar cooling effects. If one seven-hundredth of a cubic mile of fine dust were blown into the stratosphere it could form a screen which would reduce the intensity of the sun's rays by 20 per cent. The screen would remain suspended in that still windless zone for years, and it has been suggested that the ice ages have been caused by such volcanic dust-screens.

Recent research has shown that, above 23 miles and extending up to 38 miles, is another layer rich in ozone and, for that reason, called the ozonosphere. The significance of this layer so far as human history is concerned, lies in the fact that, because it is absorptive of ultra-violet rays from the sun, the earth is adapted to human habitation. Without this screen, it is said, organic life on earth would be wiped out by sun-stroke.

The ozonosphere, unlike the stratosphere, is not cold but hot. Above it and beginning at 50 miles, lies another layer, the ionosphere, so-called because the gases of the air in that region are in an electrically excited or ionized state. The secrets of this stratum are yielding to radio research although its existence had been deduced, long before the advent of the radio, to explain some of the earth's magnetic phenomena. The ionized particles have the property of reflecting radio waves back to earth and it has been revealed there are two main layers in the ionosphere, at 64 and 112 miles respectively, which reflect these waves. Each of these is split into two during the daytime making a total of four layers. These four layers probably mark the heights at which particular constituents of the atmosphere become electrified or ionized.

Recent research has further demonstrated that the electrification in the layers is more intense in summer than in winter, the condition being normally due to ultra-violet rays from the sun. Thunderstorms also play their part, it having been calculated that the electrical energy continually released in thunderstorms is more than sufficient to produce all the observed ionization in the atmosphere.

That scientific methods applied to investigation of the seemingly inaccessible have produced so much positive achievement is in striking contrast with the meagre fruits of the efforts of politicians, statesmen, economists and "brain trusts" to solve the problems of man's social and economic relationships. It suggests the thought that, were scientifically trained minds set free and independently to work, by universal agreement, upon the problems which seem destined to perpetuate embattled borders between peoples of kindred cultures and similar aspirations, their solution quickly would be forthcoming. The rest would be up to us.

FINE QUALITY TEA ALWAYS ECONOMICAL

Packers of the finest teas such as "Salada" have been forced to raise prices. As soon as merchants' stocks at present low prices are depleted your favourite beverage will cost you slightly more. This has been brought about by advances at the gardens where production has been purposely restricted in order to save the growers from further disastrous loss. But this comforting beverage is still the cheapest drink in the world next to water itself.

Charting Coast of Labrador

British Naval Surveying Ship Challenger Engaged in Work

The British naval surveying ship Challenger, has sailed from Portmouth to resume her task of charting the coast of Labrador. This work has never been completed. Last year the admiralty started the Challenger upon the work because it has become necessary to provide safe channels for navigation along this dangerous coast owing to the development of Labrador. The survey will take years to complete.

Weary Days—Sleepless Nights Wrack the Nervous System

Men and women too often suffer from sleepless beds. Their eyes do not close in the refreshing repose that comes to those whose nerves are right. They are irritable and nervous, weak and worn out, and everything looks dark and gloomy.

The Montreal Board of Trade is in favor of smaller banknotes and announced that a communication had been sent to the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, Ottawa, suggesting the change. Diver Will Spend Six Months Studying Fish In Ocean's Depths

Even though he plans to drop 3,000 feet down into the depths of the ocean in a diving glove, William Beebe doesn't expect any sea serpents.

"I saw one once," he said, a grin wrinkling his weathered face. "Then I took a second look. At first glance, it was a tremendous sea serpent writhing away into the horizon. It turned out to be the Atlantic cable."

Mr. Beebe was making last preparations for his departure for St. George, Bermuda, where he will spend six months studying deep sea fish and the strange, weird lives they lead.

CAST OFF UGLY FAT

Woman Loses 28 lbs. in 3 Months

"Three months ago," a woman writes, "I was persuaded to try Kruschen Salts to reduce my weight which was 222 lbs. I had tried other things, but all to no avail. Now I know that Kruschen Salts are different. In three weeks I lost 5 lbs., and I felt five years younger. I really must say I feel a different woman. I have now lost 28 lbs. to date." (Mrs.) S. G. B.

If you are overweight take one half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. There will be no rapid or alarming loss of weight, but just a steady decrease of that fatty fat which is as unhealthy as it is ugly. Kruschen is a scientific blend of six mineral salts found in the waters of those European spas that have been used by generations of overcast people to reduce weight.

Got Post War Job

Shoved One-Armed Man Who Did Great Things For England

The story how Sir Edward Hilton Young, minister of health, who lost an arm in the 1918 raid on Zeebrugge, got a post-war job with the admiralty was told in a speech by Lord Riddell, Sir Edward Lord Riddell said, came back from active service and sought a position with the admiralty only to be told there was "no room for a one-armed man."

Sir Edward, he said, retorted: "Well, come with me to Trafalgar Square and I'll show you a one-armed man who did great things for England."

That, concluded Lord Riddell, was too much, "even for the admiralty," and one of his chiefs replied: "If you are another Nelson we will take you on."

When the farmer is prosperous, all the world is prosperous. That, however, is a fact which too few people and too few governments have learned to appreciate.

Marvels of the Human Eye

By F. M. CROWE, Optometrist-Optician, Calgary

NO. 12—CONSERVATION OF THE EYESIGHT

A world of beauty, emotion and ideas floods the brain through the eye. Sight is the medium by which the beauty of the human face and form and of all external life is presented to us; by which the various expressions of passion and thought, of hope, joy and pain are discriminated and by which we take note of a large portion of the pleasures, sorrows and possibilities of our very existence.

Under normal conditions we use about one half of our total nerve energy in the function of vision—one hundred times as much as is required for hearing.

To all of us the value of sight is pre-eminent. It is the most cherished of the five senses. It is the most used and, thoughtlessly and through ignorance, the most abused. A greater appreciation of sight is not necessary but a greater appreciation of the importance of eye-care is needed.

A large majority of the human race have eye defects, most of which are remedial. A lack of knowledge of the actual condition of each eye as regards the visual acuity and muscular balance, as well as a lack of proper eye care, is in a large measure responsible for much needless suffering and inefficiency.

Many people live to middle life before discovering that the vision of the two eyes is not the same. This condition of course puts too much strain on the better eye and the poorer one gradually gets worse from lack of use.

So many people are inclined to think their eyes are normal because they "see alright." Apart from the fact of whether or not both eyes have normal vision, many persons suffer from headaches, nervousness and kindred complaints due to faulty balanced eye muscles. One muscle being too weak, the eye would "tend" to turn toward the opposite or stronger muscle, but the brain desiring to see a single object where only one exists, keeps the eyes straight by using up excess nerve energy for the weak muscle, thus depriving other organs of the body of their proper share. It is not therefore the part of wisdom to have a skillful Optometrist advise you whether or not your eyes are as they should be? (Concluded)

Russian Aviators Have

Completed Big Task

Rescued 101 People From Floating Ice Off Siberian Coast

Two months ago 101 Russians were wrecked on floating ice between Wrangel Island and the coast of Siberia. Since that time the efforts of Russian aviators in rescuing the 101 a few at a time has held the interest and admiration of the world. The task was recently completed. Not a life was lost.

Moscow, aware of this rich mineral resources of this Arctic island whose inaccessibility has become proverbial, rashly determined to populate it with permanent colonies. Of the 101 there were ten women and two children. After their ship had been crushed, the adventurers, who had plenty of food and fuel, built living quarters on the ice and were not uncomfortable in spite of the sub-zero temperatures. They suffered little, but they were constantly in peril, for the breaking up of the ice might bring death at any moment.

The organization of the relief work was thorough and systematic, and its success is a tribute both to the skill and to the indomitable courage of the Russian aviators. It is not without reason that Moscow is celebrating and praising the efficiency of Soviet organization, the hardihood of the marooned men and women, and the devotion and ability of the rescuers. One Moscow newspaper comments, perhaps with reason, that if the disaster had occurred in the days of the czars the Wrangel "colonies" would all have perished while bureaucratic officials argued as to which department should undertake the rescue.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Light Clothes For Warmth

Several Layers Better Than Small Number Of Heavy Ones

Very thick, heavy garments are not so helpful in enabling one to keep warm, as might be supposed. A better way to defy the cold is to wear a larger number of light ones. The late Lord Kelvin was a great believer in this method. On one occasion when he was making tests of his sounding machine on a battleship on a bitterly cold day, he was asked why he did not wear an ulster, and replied that he did not need one. The colder the weather, the more thin underclothes he put on, and the air between them insulated his body from the freezing winds. Many fishermen have also found that several layers of light garments are more useful than a small number of heavier ones, and act accordingly when facing the intense cold frequently encountered on their winter fishing trips.

Canada's Bill For Education

Public Expenditure Of About One Hundred And Sixty-Five Million Annually

Public expenditure on education in Canada amounts to $63.6 a year for every student attending school. A recent report issued by the Canadian government shows that education involves a public expenditure of about $165,000,000 yearly.

Education in Canada is under the control of the provinces, except for the task of instructing the Indians who are wards of the Dominion government. The provincial governments have made ample provision for primary, secondary, and higher education. In each province there is a complete system of public and high schools, aided by the government with liberal grants, while in each province there are also one or more universities where, in addition to the courses in arts and science, there are faculties of medicine, law, and dentistry. Technical schools and agricultural colleges, where those who desire to specialize along these lines may have an opportunity to fit themselves for their life work, are found in every province.

In 1932 there were 32,901 educational institutions in Canada employing 86,216 teachers and attended by 2,593,116 pupils, almost 25 per cent. of the whole population.

Where Talent Is Developed

Individuality Of Members Brought Out In English Institutes

People talk of the equality of mankind, yet nothing is so absurd as the equality of mankind, declared Mrs. J. C. Douglas, president of the Southampton, England, branch of the British Women's Institutes, when she was entertained in Edmonton.

"It is the inequality of mankind that is the destructive and all-important factor in human affairs," Mrs. Douglas went on. "This is particularly noticeable in our English Institutes, where diversity is the very essence of our unity."

"Immediately a member enters the door she becomes a member of the Institute and nothing more. The character of the member has nothing to do with her background, and for this very reason, hundreds of women are discovering themselves to have undreamed-of talents. Every member does, something different. Each is encouraged to develop her own individuality, and herein lies the success of the movement."

Wife: "She said she hadn't time to come in."

As a matter of fact, your neighbors think just as disagreeable things about you as you do about them.

Seems Hard To Solve

Perhaps there ought to be a happy medium between the methods of young scientific students of babies and the methods of their grandmothers. A Baltimore specialist condemns the modern method which leaves babies too much alone. It is curious that after several hundred thousand years' experience the human race has not come to definite conclusions as to how babies should be brought up.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a commission for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted some of her work, send for her and offer her a salary of $50.00 a week to start and a prospect of having it doubled. She tells Peter of her new fortune in securing employment. Mrs. Hoyt is also informed that Camilla has obtained work and is going to leave the Hoyt household. Avis Werth rents a studio on the same floor as Peter, and invites him to have lunch there. He accepts reluctantly, but is favorably impressed with his visit. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. After Camilla has gone from the studio, Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XLII.

"By the way," Peter said suddenly, "we are invited to a party for Saturday night. Avis is having a hot studio-warming, I suppose you would call it, and she commands our presence."

A little frown shadowed Camilla's face for an instant. "I can't understand why Avis took that large studio when she does practically no painting."

"I suppose because she can afford to do whatever she fancies. Just a whim for the moment."

"No doubt. But, even so, I wonder why she didn't take a place in the Craft building, since money is no obstacle. The apartments are ever so much nicer and more modern."

"She doesn't think so at all. I asked her the same question. She says the older building is ever so much more artistic and has more atmosphere than the new. And you know, her suite looks out on that little garden court with a window alcove from each room. I don't know but she's right, at that. Her furnishings are ever so much more effective in those high ceilinged rooms than they would be in the low rooms of the Craft building, with narrow case-ments and shining new varnish. She has some gorgeous stuff."

"Oh, you've seen her apartment?"

"Of course, being her nearest neighbor, I had to pass inspection on it before she opened it to the public," he said lightly. "She's going to have me do some things for her when I get time, too. First prospect, old girl. So you must be her sweetest."

The new client. Remember, the customer is always right, whether she is or not."

"Most of the time she isn't, but I'll do my best for the cause," Camilla smiled gallantly. A little secret fear clutched at her heart—was it premonition or warning?

But she quickly dismissed any such depressing thoughts, in the ecstasy of that night with Peter. He was once again her gentle, adoring lover, who laughed delightedly at her quaint remarks and gestures, and told her how much he had accomplished during the three days since she had seen him.

Neither of them referred again to the harsh words of their last meeting, and they each believed that the experience was erased as completely as the day itself that had slipped into the past of countless yesterdays. She lay in his arms and heard the deep resonance of his voice with sweet content, lost herself in his ardent kisses and dreamed again of that happy day when they would close together as Peter's wife.

Camilla would have preferred to decline the invitation for Saturday evening, but she recognized the obligation as another of those unpleasant duties which she would be called upon to meet many times in the course of her career as Peter's wife. Like him—she would have to serve his public. The more famous he became, the more public would be their private lives. But any duty became a pleasure when it involved being Peter's wife, which position more women would envy her as he advanced.

Avis was one of the first of these. Camilla knew that. She never had been particularly fond of Avis Werth, and her very obvious personal interest in Peter did not diminish her aversion to the other girl. It might be flattering to Peter to have other women adore him, but it did not make life more secure for her.

Camilla told herself that such a condition should also be flattering to her—that this man whom other women coveted had selected her from them all, to cherish and honor for all his life. But that was just the trouble, exactly, her position. For all his life would probably be for a long time, and there was always a chance—

The studio party was a magnificent gesture to make an impression upon each and every guest for a long time to come. Most of them being the kind who had grown immune to impressions. It probably failed in that respect, with two exceptions. And those two were the most important targets at which Avis was aiming—so that was all right.

One was Peter, for every woman who is in love will exert herself to the utmost to impress the man she loves. The other was Camilla, who was much more accustomed to expensive displays than Peter; but Avis especially wanted to impress Camilla with the fact that she now held the advantage over her with respect to having money for anything she might wish to do. She did. Camilla knew that although she now felt financially secure about providing for herself, even that salary which she regarded as very good for a beginning was only a mite as compared to the cost of Avis' party.

The guests were many and varied: Avis' own social group, art students and critics, established professionals, favorite models, tenants of both the Craft building and the Annex. They drifted in and out all the long evening, danced, ate, drank and made merry, with the generous encouragement of the hostess and her beverages.

For effect and approbation, she had selected several paintings and sculptured pieces from the most distinguished of her guests for a private exhibit. They added to the attractions and assured her the approval of the leaders of her adopted profession as a patron of the arts, at least.

To a certain extent, her efforts linked the producers and the market, and one sale did actually culminate from the affair.

Avis was stunning in wide-mesh black net, like delicate spider-webs that more revealed than concealed her white shoulders and molded form, full-skirted ankles below the long, net-clad that left the line of her figure half way down to swirl in a clinging fullness as she moved gracefully among her guests.

She held most of the time to Peter's arm, having taken possession of him as soon as she arrived and saying sweetly to Camilla, "I'm sure you won't mind if I give Peter a little the better of this evening. He needs to know people—the kind of people who are here to-night, and I want to be sure he meets everyone and they remember who he is. I want every one to know you, too, but you already know more of them than Peter does and after all, he is the one who has to make an impression with the right people, if he is going to succeed." She inclined her head toward a group across the room and lowered her voice, "I especially want him to meet my uncle, Mr. Danforth, who is one of the judging committee for the National exhibit. I'll introduce you later, my dear."

As a matter of fact, she failed to do so, but Camilla gave no thought to it. She was just as anxious for Peter to meet Mr. Danforth as Avis was.

She smiled a generous approval of her hostess' plans. "Of course, I want you to introduce Peter to

The Irma school board have leased the cottage school to Mr. Percy Webster, who is having the walls and ceiling kalsomed before moving in.

The Irma village council held their May meeting on May 14th when considerable business was put through, including the setting of the rate of taxation for 1934. The rate was lowered two mills this year, making it 18 instead of 20 which has been the rate for a number of years.

The Irma public school children held a rehearsal on Friday evening, May 11th in Kiefer's hall in preparation for the school festival at Wainwright on the 15th and also for the purpose of raising funds to defray expenses. A nice crowd turned out to hear the children and give their support, the net amount of $16.15 being realized.

Mr. Frank Maguire left for Provost on Friday, May 11th where he is being employed by Mr. Jack Levitt.

A large number of the Irma L.O.O.F. and Rebekahs attended divine service last Sunday evening, May 13th in the Irma United church.

Melgrove Valley Guides Report Activities

On Friday, May 4th, the Guides and Rangers presented their play, "The Spinsters' Convention" to a full house at Valley school. All members entered well into the spirit of their part, especially Emma Johnson, as Jerusha Spriggins; Made Burrows, as the artistic Rebecca Sharpe; and Inez Johnson as Charity Longface, old, deaf, and far from graceful. At the conclusion of the play the prizes won in the recent handicraft exhibition were presented by Mrs. D. Whidden.

During supper a rug (the gift of Mrs. Whidden) was drawn for, Mrs. J. Routledge holding the lucky number.

A short dance, kindly sponsored by Messrs. F. Pendleton and S. Johnson brought an enjoyable evening to a close, and the Guides Camp Fund ended by $33.00.

Honors still come to Melgrove Valley—the bag exhibited by Maude Johnson in the provincial guide exhibition last month has been selected to represent Alberta in the Dominion exhibition, being held in Toronto this month. The whole of the Canadian exhibit will then be forwarded to take part in the world conference exhibition being held at Adelboden, Switzerland, in August next.

As only one exhibit is allowed from each province Maude is indeed to be congratulated on the honor she has brought to her company.

Weed Experts Report On Sow Thistles

The manner in which sow thistle reduces grain yields is shown in figures produced in a booklet dealing with latest methods of control and eradication of this weed just compiled by Dr. G. P. McRostie, Professor of agronomy, and W. Tildesley, M.Sc., assistant on weed research, of the agricultural college of the University of Manitoba. The survey was conducted over a period of three years under the direction of, and financed by, the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association. Booklets dealing with this weed are being distributed this week at all line country elevators.

The booklet deals with the plant; distribution in the west; origin of the weed; methods of spreading through seed and root system; the manner of damage caused by sow thistle; tables showing the average reduction in yield of wheat plants growing at different distances from sow thistle plants; methods of control through cultivation; use of chemicals and the growth of sweet clover in areas where it is not necessary to summer-fallow to conserve moisture in combatting sow thistle growth.

Farmers who are troubled with this weed and those who wish to keep their fields free from infestation are advised to obtain this booklet which is now available free of charge at all line country elevators. Booklets were recently issued by the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association dealing with couch grass control and the loss brought about by weeds in farm areas of the west.

Some folk find happiness in being unhappy.

No man ever realized fully his potentialities.

It is easier to excuse our bad habits than to overcome them.

JARROW JOTTINGS

The Mothers' Day program given by the children in the United church was well rendered and very much enjoyed by all. The church was very much to capacity, extra chairs were brought in to accommodate the people. An appropriate sermon on "Mother" was delivered by the pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. Griffith accompanied the Kinsella choir to Wainwright last Monday. The choir sang two selections at the musical festival and received good marks for their performance.

The men of Jarrow have busied themselves the past two evenings cleaning up the memorial park. This park adds much to the appearance of our village and should be kept clean. It should also be beautified with flowers.

Little Pat Barton who was sick for a couple of days is improving.

The Junior girls have discontinued their club meetings for the summer. However, they are looking forward to having a picnic sometime in June, to wind up a successful year's work.

JARROW SPORTS DAY MONDAY, JUNE 4th

The Jarrow Board of Trade is again sponsoring the annual sports day at Jarrow to be held this year on Monday, June 4th. For many years Jarrow has held this day and have had some real successful sports, and this year will be no exception.

Among the attractions already lined up for the occasion is a junior and senior baseball tournament that promises to create unusual interest. Other sports and athletic events will be foot races, novelty games, horse shoe tournament, and a real tug-o-war between the biggest and strongest men in the district. Other events are being scheduled that will round out a full day of keen sport, fun and merriment for all. Refreshment booths on the grounds will cater to the needs of the crowds.

A big dance in the evening will top off the day, and a snappy orchestra will furnish music.

Everybody is invited to come to Jarrow and celebrate the King's birthday on June 4th.

Smokers will sit up and take notice when they read that one well known tobacco company made almost two million dollars on an investment of $25,000.00.
